FYI – more PEMs testing results of European diesel cars passed on by the German environmental organization that has been providing us with their information periodically.

Other than passing this information on to OTAQ, I'm not certain what else if anything we should be doing with it. If you have recommendations, please let me know.

Thanks,

Subject: WG: Measurements on Euro 6 passenger cars on the road

Dear Mr Kaul

please find attached our latest publication on measurements of Euro 6 passenger cars on the road with PEMS. The results show that 33 of 36 vehicles fail current NOx emission limit value. To date, in Germany no mandatory recall has been mandated by responsible authorities for any of the cars involved.

If you have any question please let me know.

Kind regards, Dorothee Saar
